PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dave Geraci

Fratelli,

It looks as though summer is officially upon us, and we kicked off the grilling season at last month's meeting, with BBQ ribs. Mark and his crew presented us with another spectacular dinner. Many thanks to the kitchen crew. Recruiting at the, "bring a guest night," went well as our new membership appointee, T J Blau, signed up five new members.

Our next big summer BBQ is the family picnic and scholarship award. Please call Mike for your tickets as they are going fast. I am looking forward to a great time, thanks in part, to all of the efforts of many of our members, as well as joint effort by the women's club. There will be some new surprises, so you won't want to miss it.

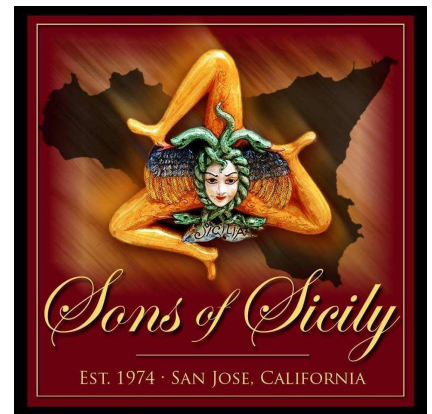

On a more somber note, I would like to pay a tribute to our oldest member, who just recently passed, Bud Lomonaco Sr. Bud was a longtime member of this club, who left a lasting legacy, and he will surely be missed. My condolences to the entire Lomonaco family.

Next month is a regular meeting and we will be discussing the future finances of our club. So, if you would like to have a say in this matter, I would highly encourage you to attend.

Grazie,

Dave

The capital of multicultural Sicily, Palermo regularly ranks as one of the world's top destinations for street food. The city's frenetic markets and down-to-earth street stalls offer an authentic taste of Sicilian culture, featuring flavors that range from the familiar (pizza-like sfincione) to the exotic chickpea fritters with minty potato croquettes, to the downright daring spleen sandwiches and skewered entrails, anyone?

Snacking on the street is a proud, centuries-old tradition in Palermo, born of both practicality and poverty. Even as street food has become a worldwide fad, with celebrity chefs preparing amped-up versions of humble home-grown classics, street food culture in Palermo remains true to its unpretentious roots.

Walk Palermo's back streets and you'll find simple snacks designed to provide maximum calories at minimum cost, still made on the spot at independently run friggitorie (fried-food stalls), where the typical vendor's toolkit is limited to a simple grill or a battered metal cart and a vat of boiling fat. Street food venues are scattered all over the city, with many popular spots concentrated near the bustling Vucciria, Ballarò and Capo markets.
